Hiring Team, eBay

Re: Director, Design Systems

Hi Hiring Team,

I'm applying for the Director, Design Systems role at eBay. I've built or matured a design system in every role I've held, across ecommerce, consumer genetics, DTC, B2B SaaS, and mobile, and I'd like to bring that pattern to a team working at eBay's scale.

The work I'm most proud of at G2 is a useful example of how I think about this job. The Elevate design system rebuild required coordinating product, brand, and engineering stakeholders across multiple squads, none of whom reported to me. The harder part was creating the conditions where other designers could build on the foundation without being told to.

For this role, the work I'd focus on first is understanding the team: where designers are in their development, where the system has clear ownership and where it doesn't, and what the relationship with engineering actually looks like day to day.

I'd welcome a conversation about the role and what the team needs right now. Thank you for your time.
